WOODSIDE TO SUPPLY DOMESTIC GAS TO WORSLEY ALUMINA

Woodside Energy Ltd (Woodside) has entered into a long-term gas sale and purchase agreement with Worsley Alumina Joint Venture for the supply of approximately 40 PJ of pipeline gas.

The gas is being supplied to the joint venture from Woodside's portfolio of domestic gas facilities, including the North West Shelf, Pluto and Wheatstone.

Worsley Alumina Joint Venture is held by South32 (86%), Japan Alumina Associates (10%) and Sojitz (4%).

Woodside Executive Vice President Marketing Trading & Shipping Reinhardt Matisons welcomed the agreement to supply gas to the Worsley Alumina integrated mining and refining complex in Western Australia's south west.

"Over recent months we've commissioned the Pluto pipeline gas and LNG truck loading facilities and started domestic gas production at Wheatstone, building on our foundation domestic gas business at the North West Shelf.

"Our agreement with Worsley Alumina, which makes a significant contribution to jobs and prosperity in its local community, is a further demonstration of Woodside's commitment to supplying domestic gas to consumers in Western Australia from our diverse supply portfolio," he said.
